

LAURI BORTZ

Marianne Nowolny

Mark Dagley

Newton Chronicle

Mark Dagley

...Working with some of the visionaries behind the Suburban Genius / UP & CO lines was phenomenal. Strutting around in the shimmering garments and out-there T-shirts we were all-american unruly, teenage demi-gods diving into the view of the camera lens. Lauri Bortz would scrutinize accessories to assist the fashions by portraying our own personal character. I admire her creativity which was revealed to me through the words in her book "Tonight at 8:00 - Two Great Plays". The plays were hip and modernized, as mockably humorous as original, providing a mood and logic of their own. I could just see them come to life on the stage of a postmodern beatnik coffeshop. Truly an inspiration for me, as I in admiration began to write again. Even the experience alone compelled me to write. I felt I could dress conservative as well as grasping individuality in a balance of society and rebellion. I was on Uberfobe.

"Tonight at 8:00" SEX-SCANDAL-MURDER by Lauri Bortz, illustrated by Judith Fleishman, (Abolten Book Co, 1/1 973 300-9886) was launched at UP & CO NY (Nov 97) Kunsthous Reiner Opoku Calagne Dec 97) and will be presented January '98 of Elizabeth Cherry Contemporary Art, Tucson Arizona.

Spring 1998 Abolten Books will publish poems and writings by fifteen year old Newton resident Marianne Nowolny.

(left) Marianne is wearing a stretch fake suede 3 button jacket by UP & CO and a crochel beanie hat by PATCH. Photography: Mark Dagley, Styling: Lauri Bortz.

Opening: December 4, 6-8 pm December 5 - January 10, 1998 - tue - sat 10 am - 6pm

Sarah Station 'gray' October 31 - December 20, 1997
Duncan Cargill Gallery, 22 Warren Street, London W1 1+44 171 388 3603 F+44 171 388 3604